Hanoi Greatly Increasing Shipments Of Supplies Along Ho Chi Minh Trail

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer
SAIGON (AP) — The number of North Vietnamese trucks moving supplies south along the Ho Chi Minh trail has increased eight-fold since October, official sources said today.

In October, reconnaissance planes sighted about 250 trucks moving through eastern Laos, the sources said, but the number jumped to about 1,000 a week in November when the monsoon season ended and roads became more passable.

Two Have Left 'Black Capitalism' Officials Discontented

WASHINGTON (AP) — The resignation of a key man in the Nixon administration's "black capitalism" program has brought to the surface once again the bubbling turmoil in the Office of Minority Business Enterprise.

Arthur L. Ortiz, director of the Commerce Department agency's campaign to persuade franchising companies to make more room for members of minority groups, submitted his resignation Thursday. It was not disclosed until the OMBE was questioned Friday.

Ortiz will return next month to New Mexico, which he left six months ago, to become state personnel director.

Frustrated
Although OMBE said the parting was cordial, sources within the agency said Ortiz was frustrated by what he thought were administrative shortcomings and was receptive to another job offer before New Mexican officials approached him.

His resignation was submitted on the same day Commerce announced that Thomas F. Roesser, who was fired almost two months ago as OMBE director, quit his job as special assistant to Secretary Maurice H. Stans. Roesser will become public affairs director for the Peace Corps.

It became clear Friday from interviews with several OMBE officials and observers that discontent has approached such a point the agency might lose as many as four of the 20 members of its professional staff.

Roeser Fired
The discontent apparently has its roots in the time before Roesser, a white former publicist, was fired.

Even now, however, there are differences of opinion about the cause of the firing. High Commerce officials have contended Roesser wasn't a good administrator, and this was repeated again Friday by an OMBE spokesman who declined to be identified.

Roeser supporters claim he was dismissed because he differed with Stans on the way OMBE's activities should be promoted. Roesser aired his complaints in public in a speech in Chicago.

Police-Panther Talks Through Intermediaries

California Test Plan Meant to Build Mutual Confidence

Prevent Conflicts

Police in Berkeley, national headquarters for the Black Panthers, agreed Friday to use the civilians to prevent conflicts and misunderstandings between themselves and the Black Panthers.

Black Panther headquarters said it would issue a statement naming those it wishes to act as intermediaries. A Berkeley police spokesman said: "We'll use five of our leading black citizens." He did not name them, however.

Rough Stuff
"We've advocated this approach for months," Garry said. "We'll wait and see how it works. I'm tired of all the rough stuff."

For a week, attorneys have been staffing Panther offices in Berkeley and San Francisco at night.

"We will honor any warrants or orders and deliver any Black Panther they want," Garry said.

"We don't plan to start a campaign for similar agreements across the nation because that is up to each community. I do think it could be a showcase here for adoption by other cities, though."

Despite a ban on street demonstrations, several hundred persons marched on the National Assembly building Friday to demand action against three assemblymen accused of being Viet Cong sympathizers. Police stopped traffic to let the demonstrators cross a main street near the assembly building.

With obvious government approval—some of the demonstrators said they had been paid to participate—the crowd smashed open the front doors and invaded the chamber where about 80 assemblymen were meeting. Police took no firm action to halt the protest.

Political observers have viewed charges against the three legislators as part of President Nguyen Van Thieu's campaign against anyone advocating neutralism or a coalition government as a way to end the war.

Foreign Aid Provisions Controversial
WASHINGTON (AP) — A foreign aid fight seems certain on provisions in the $1.86 billion appropriation which call for $50 million in military aid to South Korea and $54 million for a Nationalist Chinese fighter squadron.

Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., opposes the two items and says "chances are pretty good" they will be overturned.

Both provisions were tacked on by the House. Fulbright sponsored an amendment barring the $104 million and it cleared the Senate on a vote of 62 to 28. A House-Senate conference threw the amendment out of the money bill Friday.

However, the foreign aid authorization measure, which puts the spending ceiling at $1.97 billion, does not include the Taiwan or South Korean items.

Fulbright says he hopes to oppose the military features on the basis that they have not been authorized.

Final Package Close To House Offering

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new and extend the surtax at 5 per cent for six months — two many preferences but also passing actions Nixon recommended. The bill also provides a special Social Security benefits is set for low income allowance taking some 5 million families off the tax rolls and reducing taxes for many others.

It would boost the personal income tax exemption from the current $600 to $750 over the next three years, raise Social Security benefits to some 25 million Americans by 15 per cent across the board and ease tax rates for single persons.

President Nixon, committed to a surplus budget to fight inflation, said previously he would veto a too-generous tax measure. His remarks apparently were aimed at the bill as passed by the Senate which voted an $800 personal exemption.

After a Senate-House conference committee completed work on the measure Friday, it came much closer in its revenue effect to an earlier House version Nixon indicated he would accept. Moreover, it provides a surplus of revenue in the two years the President is most concerned about—$6.47 billion in 1970 and $288 million in 1971—although the projections show a net loss later.

The administration fought the bill to issue a statement naming those it wishes to act as intermediaries. A Berkeley police spokesman said: "We'll use five of our leading black citizens." He did not name them, however.

Warrants Out For 10 Students At Whitewater

City to Seek Action Against Others in Fracas on Campus

WHITWATER (AP) — Ten Negro students at Whitewater State University were named in warrants Friday as a result of racial clashes earlier in the week.

Walworth County Dist. Atty. Robert Read said steps were being taken to issue additional warrants against other students accused of roles in a fist fight early Tuesday between Negro students and members of a white fraternity.

The college has suspended 10 Negroes accused of invading the fraternity house, smashing windows and scuffling with fraternity members after a similar incident had broken out at an intramural basketball game.

Variety of Charges
Read said nine of the students suspended by the school were among the 10 named in Friday's warrants, which charge disorderly conduct, criminal damage to property and trespassing.

Nearly all of the students involved in the arrests and suspensions are from Milwaukee. One is from Chicago.

All had left the campus, saying racial tension had made Whitewater too dangerous for Negroes.

The school's 9,700 enrollment includes 102 Negroes. The school's Christmas vacation begins Friday.

Read said warrants would be issued to Milwaukee and Chicago police to help identify the students who should be unable to serve their time in Whitewater.

The 10 cited Friday, Read said, are only about a third of the students involved in the house clash said about two dozen Negroes forced their way into the house, broke trophies, fired two pistols shots, and hit the fraternity president with a baseball bat.

Wise Man Prudent at Yule Party

MIAMI (AP) — "Tis the season to be followed," says a wise investigator who recommends avoiding the office holiday party.

The season "always brings a rush of new business on the domestic relations front," investigator Ed Bishop said Friday in an interview.

"The much joked about office party frequently triggers what should officials be unable to serve their time in Whitewater."

It is usually a long-standing problem, he said. "Liquor relaxes the guy's inhibitions. In many instances, Christmas parties act as a catalyst."

Guidelines for Drinkers Chubbies Have Edge With Holiday Cheer

CHICAGO (AP) — A 180-pound man might drink five bottles of beer before he gets drunk, but three bottles would do it to a 120-pounder.

The heavier man might drink five shots of whiskey before falling "under the influence," but four would do for the little one.

And all holiday drinkers should remember that even the "average" drink has a mind-dulling effect for an hour after it is consumed.

These are among the guidelines for drinkers set forth by the American Medical Association and the National Safety Council in a new campaign to teach drinkers how long the effect of a drink lasts and what it does to their driving ability.

Realistic Approach
They believe the campaign is a more realistic approach to ward drunken driving. More than 25,000 of the 55,200 automobile fatalities in 1968 involved alcohol consumption, and the organizations concede that past campaigns urging drivers not to drink at all have had little effect.

The council and the AMA have prepared charts relating drinks and body size to the degree of intoxication.

Most states consider a person with a 0.15 per cent concentration of alcohol in the blood to be "under the influence." But some states, federal agencies, the AMA, and the Safety Council recommend that a person with a 0.10 per cent alcohol concentration in his blood be presumed "under the influence."

Alcohol Percentage
Among popular alcoholic drinks, beer contains the lowest percentage of alcohol while whiskey and rum have the highest, but—because of the size of the drink—cocktails such as martinis and manhattans are the most intoxicating.

A 120-pound drinker reaches the 0.10 per cent concentration level with slightly more than three bottles of beer. The 180-pound drinker would have to consume five bottles to reach that limit.

The 120-pound whiskey drinker would reach the 0.10 per cent level with less than four one-ounce shots. The 180-pound drinker could have five.

One and a half martinis or manhattans would bring the 120-pound drinker to the 0.10 limit. Just over two would bring the 180-pound to that level.

If a driver doesn't follow the ideal course of total abstinence, the two groups suggest:

--Drink in a way that will keep you from being under the influence when driving. "This means that most individuals should not drink more than one bottle of beer or one highball an hour."

--Decide in advance the maximum you will drink—and stick to it.

--The host should encourage guests who drink to do so at the suggested leisurely rate.

Church Businesses Face Taxation in California

By JERRY RANKIN Associated Press Writer SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — California starts taxing some church businesses on Jan. 1, but no one in the state government or the churches themselves seems to know exactly who will be taxed, where they are, or how much money will be raised.

A law passed by the 1969 legislature and signed by Gov. Ronald Reagan extends the state's corporation tax to businesses directly operated by religious organizations but unrelated to their spiritual function.

Church and state officials alike say they cannot at the moment think of a specific business which isn't taxed now but will be under the new law.

Such things as cemeteries, publications, old-age homes and other activities directly associated with church functioning won't be considered unrelated income. They will remain tax-free.

But if a church ran a movie house devoted to family type films, for instance, it would be taxed. The new law requires all churches to list types and sources of income. The amount need not be reported unless it comes from an unrelated business.

Sponsor of the law was Democratic Sen. Anthony C. Bevilacqua of Beverly Hills, who is Jewish. He says he was surprised at how easily the bill went through and became law. Most major denominations had endorsed some such form of legislation.

In the rest of the nation during the past few months many denominations have expressed an almost eager willingness, in the name of fairness, to lose their tax-exempt status when it comes to outside businesses they operate.

The National Council of Churches and the U.S. Catholic Conference issued a joint appeal last May to the U.S. Congress to eliminate special income tax immunity which the churches enjoy on unrelated business income.

All such bodies make an important distinction, however, concerning tax exemptions on their houses of worship. A major suit is now pending before the U.S. Supreme Court, brought by a citizen named Frederick Walz against the New York City Tax Commission. The Walz complaint alleges that tax exemptions for churches and synagogues violate the American Constitution's church-state separation tradition.

The Rev. Glen Holman, who represents the Northern and Southern California Councils of Churches in the state capital, was asked if revenues under the new state law might reach $1 million a year.

Surprised

"I would doubt it would be that high," he said.

William R. Burke, legislative counsel for the Roman Catholic bishops of California, said he would be surprised if "a great deal of tax money" resulted from the law.

James T. Philbin, who will be administering the new law, conceded that "we have no idea" how much money will come in. Deciding whether a church-related business is taxable will be difficult, he said, but he expects that churches will be fair about reporting income if it appears the law affects them.

Tax Rate

The California corporation tax rate is 7 per cent of net income. Businesses run by churches get a special $1,000 deduction. Businesses in which a church funds

'Understanding Modern Church' Catholic Education Council To Sponsor Adult Program

Understanding the contemporary church will be the main theme for the second phase of adult education, offered by the Appleton Catholic Education Council (ACEC), beginning Jan. 8.

Four area men involved in theological studies will be the speakers.

All lectures will be at 8 p.m. on Thursdays and each will have a run of four weeks.

Starting off the sessions will be the Rev. Kurt Gessner, OFM Cap., director of Monte Alverno Retreat Center, whose topic is "Current Trends in Scripture Study."

Origins of the Bible, the various literary forms and the meaning of inspiration will be examined. The course will be Jan. 8, 15, 22 and 29 at the retreat house.

Methodist Minister

"The Centering Moment," study of the contemporary theology of prayer is set for February. The Rev. Charles Logsdon, associate pastor, First United Methodist Church, will be the lecturer.

Active in religion education, and ecumenism on all levels, he currently is the Wisconsin Area Coordinator of Youth Ministries for the United Methodist Church.

His course runs Feb. 5, 12, 19 and 26 and will be at the fellowship hall of First United.

"Understanding the Modern Church," will be the topic for March, and will be offered March 5, 12, 19 and another meeting which will be determined at the first session.

The Rev. Orville Janssen, pastor, St. Bernard Catholic Church and founder of the diocesan newspaper, will be the speaker.

Vase of Authority

The proper use of authority in the church, the meaning of infallibility and the true goal of legality (co-responsibility) will be discussed.

Dr. L. J. Fedewa, director of social ethics program at St.

Norbert College will wrap up the series in April with "Contemporary Christian Ethics." April 8, 16, 23 and 30 are the dates.

He will survey the ideas of contemporary scholars in Christian morality and will emphasize the impact that Christian personalism is having on their thinking.

Course fee is $4 per person or $5 per couple for each of the four courses. All four courses are $12, for each person or $15 per couple.

High school seniors and college-age people and religious may attend free of charge, but they are asked to pre-register with the ACEC office.

All will be at St. Bernard.

Two Priests Get New Assignments

The Rev. Alfred Hielpas, pastor, St. Nicholas Church, Freedom, has been appointed director of rural life for the Diocese of Green Bay, by the Most Rev. Aloysius Wycislo, bishop.

He replaces the Rev. John Weyers.

Also appointed to a new parish is the Rev. Paul J. Fellenz, associate pastor at Holy Name of Jesus, Kimberly, to associate St. Matthew, Allouez.

Father Hielpas will remain as pastor of St. Nicholas, where he has served since 1957.

Groppi Denied Rehearing Bid

MADISON (AP) — The Wisconsin Supreme Court Friday denied a motion for a rehearing on the Rev. James E. Groppi's challenge of a law under which he was cited in October for contempt of the State Assembly.

An attorney for the militant civil rights priest, Percy Julian of Madison, said the denial means Groppi may get relief only from the federal courts, to which he has also appealed.

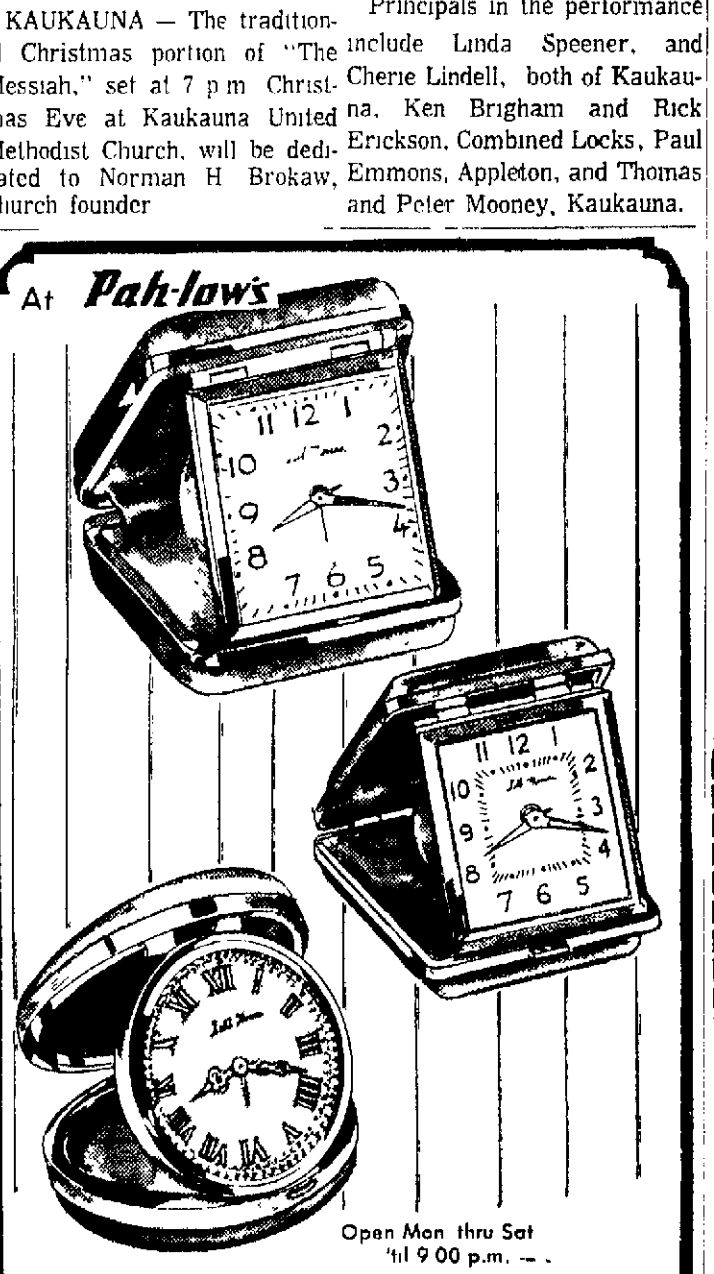

Groppi, who led a massive sit-in protest in the Assembly chambers Sept. 29, in opposition to welfare cuts, contended he was denied due process because the Assembly cited him for contempt without a hearing or a trial.

Appropriations Bill for HEW Cut Down by $1.5 Billion

WASHINGTON (AP) — Slash ing funds requested by the ad ministration, Senate House con ferees have cut about $1.5 billion from an appropriations bill President Nixon threatened to veto as too costly.

But the future of the bill to provide funds for the Depart ments of Labor and Health, Education and Welfare was still uncertain.

There was no word from the White House on whether the bill would be acceptable to Nixon and Senate leaders did not say whether their compromise would be brought up for passage before Congress adjourns for Christmas.

Sen. Warren G. Magnuson, D-Wash., chairman of the Senate conferees, indicated Friday the total of the compromise bill was somewhat under $20 billion. Nixon, who had requested $19.8 billion, warned Thursday night that House and Senate additions of about $1.6 billion to the bill made it inflationary.

Large Explains Position on Tax Redistribution

Cites Inequities in Present Formula for Sharing Utility Taxes

MADISON (AP)—Sen. Gerald Lorge, R-Bear Creek, today ex plained his position on proposals to revamp the redistribution formula for Wisconsin's shared taxes in the following way:

"The present formula for dis tributing utility taxes takes the dollars invested in plant and adds to this sum the dollars of gross revenues earned. Thus the dollars of utility property plus the dollars of gross revenue for each municipality in the state is used as the parameter in dis tributing the utility tax.

"Under the present formula a few municipalities having tre mendous dollars of property and very few dollars of revenue get an inordinate proportion of the utility tax. This can be most easily corrected by giving the revenue dollars a weight of three before combining same with the property dollars. In this simple way a greater pro portion of the utility taxes will be paid to the communities using the utility services, at the same time the communities having the production plants will not be deprived of a fair share of their utility tax."

Lorge, who has been men tioned as a candidate for the U.S. Senate, issued the position statement prior to appearing before a meeting in Racine to day of the Senate Committee on Labor, Taxation, Insurance and Banking which is investigating the matter.

Killed in Action

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon Friday listed two more Wisconsin servicemen as having been killed in action in Vietnam.

They were Army Spec 4 Joseph N. Eveland, son of Mrs. Helen N. Eveland, Black Earth; and Army Pfc. Terry L. Perz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward H. Perz of Green Bay.

proprations for the current fis cal year and would only defer the appropriation until the first of next year.

OEO Cut

In another cut, the conferees trimmed the $2,048 billion re quested by Nixon for the Office of Economic Opportunity to $1.95 billion.

Magnuson said around $250 million had been trimmed from increases voted by the Senate for various health and education programs.

Thus, the conferees made the bulk of the cuts in funds re quested by the administration, and left standing some of the funding opposed by Nixon.

Democrats urging their col leagues to fight Nixon on the bill threatened to take the issue of federal spending for health, edu cation and welfare to the voters in next fall's elections.

A Failure of National Leadership

John Gardner, former Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare who resigned his Cabinet post in the Johnson Administration apparently because of a different view of priorities, has recently criticized President Nixon and Congressional leaders.

Mr. Gardner is not the kind who tosses criticism out casually. He did not even explain his resignation to take over the chairmanship of the Urban Coalition. What speeches he makes are constructive rather than carping and this makes his recent talk to the members of the National Press Club all the more interesting.

The President "must do more to set a tone of urgency to which we can all respond, and more to exemplify in his own actions a determination to solve our present problems." Those problems, Mr. Gardner has indicated before, are those of the cities and the racial divisions. "We are anxious but immobilized. We know what our problems are, but seem incapable of summoning our will and our resources to act...The place to begin is with our national leadership, both in the executive branch and the Congress. With a few notable exceptions there has been a failure of leadership. More than any other factor it is the missing ingredient in our situation today... Only the President's clearly expressed concern and clearly stated priorities can mobilize the Federal apparatus, encourage the Congress to shake off its lethargy, and enable leaders in other sectors of American life to move decisively..."

The matter of setting priorities has been avoided in Washington. President Nixon does seem determined to get us out of Vietnam although we have doubts that his "plan" will really succeed. His Administration has backtracked as far as trying to end segregated schools is concerned, although the efforts were overturned by the Supreme Court. Antipoverty legislation has been expanded but in spite of the Administration rather than because of it. In fact the Administration favored legislation which would give states more control over funds which are needed in urban areas despite the record in many states, including Wisconsin, of a lack of concern over city problems at the state legislative level.

It may be that opposition to extensive programs to eliminate hunger, racial discrimination and the immense problems of inner core areas is represented in that "silent majority" of which President Nixon has spoken. Resentment against the encroachment of blacks in formerly all white areas, fear of the violence that exists in the streets, opposition to anti-war demonstrations and demands for changes in welfare programs are all very real in the nation and may represent the views of at least a majority of middle class white America. But this is not to say that such opinions are right. Nor does it give much confidence that the minority — which may not be a small minority — will not resort to more and more violence and more support for real revolution.

We do not need to minimize the aggressive tendencies of some Communist regimes or their dedication to their cause to realize that the major threat to the "American way of life" comes from within and not from without. We must hope that President Nixon does not follow his predecessor's way of life in getting so immunized against the outside world that he doesn't know what goes on in his own country.

K-C's Life Cycle Center

The appointment of a new director of Kimberly-Clark Corporation's Life Cycle Center has called attention to the outstanding public service the corporation is rendering through the center.

Kimberly-Clark pioneered back in the 1920's in establishing a program of feminine hygiene education, and given the hush-hush attitude of those times toward the subject, it was a rather daring venture.

Two years ago this service was expanded through the establishment of the Life Cycle Center, and Kimberly-Clark began publishing educational materials in the broader field of family life education. The materials are supplied to schools, churches, youth groups, parents and women of all ages.

In this effort Kimberly-Clark was in tune with the changing times, for gradually the great need for family life education is being recognized throughout the country.

The new director, Mary Louise Lennon, brings with her an extensive background in the fields of health and family life education, including teaching experience at both the high school and college level. A continued expansion of the center's activities can be expected. And we salute this effort on the part of private industry to perform a much needed public service.

Now Masaryk Slipped and Fell

The report from the office of the Czechoslovak attorney general that former Foreign Minister Jan Masaryk probably had "an unfortunate accident" and fell from his second story room to his death 21 years ago is an interesting one because of its more subtle implications.

Mr. Masaryk, son of the first President of the Czechoslovak republic, died just two weeks after the Communist coup in 1948. He had agreed to stay on in the regime and came under considerable criticism from non-Communist sources for the decision. But it also appeared that the Russians could not risk having him in office and still did not dare expel him because of his personal popularity. After his death, an official investigation found it to be suicide, due to his despondency over the Communist coup.

But there were other signs that he was murdered. The new investigation, begun when the liberal regime of Alexander Dubcek came to power but no longer under liberal control, did not quite dare repeat the suicide verdict. Instead, while absolutely ruling out "the possibility of murder" although no evidence was given, it seeks to remove from both the Soviets and Mr. Masaryk the onus of his death. He had insomnia, so the report goes, and often sat on the window sill to get chilled so he could fall asleep. Somehow he slipped. It was a sad thing certainly but nobody could really be blamed.

The interesting point is that the Czechoslovak Communists and their Russian masters have felt the need to soothe the Czechoslovak people despite the hard line taken by the Soviet Union in their military invasion of Prague last August and the reversion of the government to conservative communism. By tossing out a few crumbs, they hope to quiet down the opposition.

Looking Backward

Temperance Means No Brew

100 YEARS AGO

Quoted from the Appleton Crescent for Dec. 25, 1869.

A large temperance meeting was held at the Methodist Church Sunday evening last.

Rev. G. C. Haddock addressed the audience, taking for his basic remarks the query: "Who's to Blame?"

He took the ground that to effectually educate and instill temperance into the minds of people, there must be total abstinence inculcated in the families of the people, covering even the home-made wine as well as cider and beer. At the close of his remarks, a form of pledge embodying the above ground was read, adopted by a vote of the audience and then circulated for signatures.

A committee of eight persons were also appointed to circulate the same pledge in the community.

25 YEARS AGO

Saturday, Dec. 16, 1944.

The United States took three beachheads in new landings in the Philippines that day as a 20-mile-long convoy moved 600 miles among enemy islands of the central Philippines while carrier planes knocked out 300 Japanese aircraft. Mechanized troops landed the previous day on Mindoro within 155 miles of Manila.

John Strange, Appleton, was elected secretary of the Sulphite Pulp and Paper Manufacturers Committee on Waste Disposal at a meeting in Neenah.

Tinka Eimmerman was chairman of the games committee for the Christmas party being planned by the Youth Fellowship of Brokaw Memorial Methodist Church in Kaukauna.

Miss Muriel Engelland, Sigma Alpha Iota alumna and voice instructor at Lawrence Conservatory of Music, was to be the guest soloist for the SAI Christmas musical at Peabody Hall the next evening.

10 YEARS AGO

Saturday, Dec. 19, 1959.

The College Avenue high bridge was officially dedicated and opened the previous afternoon with Harold Plummer, retiring State Highway Commission, cutting the ribbon. Taking part in the ceremony were Gus A. Zuehlke, Chamber of Commerce president; Clarence J. Brownson, Outagamie County highway commissioner; Mayor Clarence A. Mitchell; Edwin J. Duszynski, director of public works, and Alvin Fulcer, Outagamie County Board chairman and Kimberly Village president.

New officers of the Little Chute Kiwanis Club were Joseph Vanden Burght, president; Richard Vander Wyl, vice president; Edward Spierings, secretary, and William Winius, treasurer.

Qualified moose hunters from Neenah that year were Herbert Gibson, 71, George Schulz and the latter's brother, John Schulz. They all shot their animals in the Graham, Ontario, Canada area.

Background Map

Biafra Reduced to One-Third Original Size in Civil War

OWERRI, Biafra (AP) — While the civilian population of Biafra continues to dwindle as a result of starvation, the little breakaway enclave of Nigeria also is shrinking because of military setbacks at the hands of the federal Nigerian armed forces.

In the 29 months the civil war has lasted, secessionist Biafra has shrunk to about a third of its original size. It is now a tiny area about the size of the state of Delaware. It no longer claims a population of 14 million, but has only an estimated three-to-five million people, many of whom have but days to live.

Militarily, Biafra's provisional capital of Owerri is in a highly vulnerable situation. The secessionist enclave is virtually surrounded by Nigerian-controlled territory, and Owerri is located about halfway between the borders of a pinched-in section of Biafra. Nigerian forces, recognizing the weakness of the Biafran headquarters are pressing north from Port Harcourt and south from Umuahia, until recently a Biafran-held town.

Aim For Airfield
Other federal troops are pressing in from the east and west, trying a similar pincer movement against Biafra's Uli airfield, where runway lights are switched on for only seconds at a time to enable quick night-time landings and takeoffs.

If the federal troops succeed in gaining control of Uli airfield, Biafrans no longer will have access to a meager supply of food, carried in on risky church-sponsored relief flights.

The airfield also is the home based for Biafra's air force of 18 Swedish-built Minicons, small but lethal rocket-launching planes.

Efforts to negotiate a plan to allow passage by relief flights into Biafra's airfield have broken down — Biafran leader Lt. Col. Odumegwu Ojukwu insists on night-time flights, while the federal government regards any flights but those carried out in full daylight are probable ammunition and arms suppliers.

Biafra Hurting Badly
Although Nigerian military officers are no longer prone to announce that a single upcoming action will crush the rebellion, there is no question that Biafra is hurting badly, from a military point of view.

Ojukwu has made diplomatic overtures, based on acceptance of federal rule in exchange for a degree of local autonomy, including the right to maintain an armed force, for his fellow Ibo tribesmen.

But Maj. Gen. Yakubu Gowon, the Nigerian leader, is determined not to set a precedent that would require the granting of autonomy to other tribal groups.

Although Biafran troops have shown they are a fierce force to be reckoned with — having slaughtered 1,800 federal troops recently in the battle to retake Owerri — there seems to be too much starvation and disease to allow the Biafran will to last unbroken much longer.

WALDRIDGE, England (AP) — The state-run National Coal Board planned to demolish the disused coal mine here, but the BBC stepped in and stopped the operation at the last minute — so it could blow the pit up instead. The explosion will be the high spot of the BBC's most ambitious location drama broadcast, a five-part serial based on Emile Zola's novel Germinal about socialist revolution in 19th century France.

Lieutenant Governor Could Perform More Important State Jobs

By JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON — Contrary to the popular impression, the lieutenant governorship has not been an important office in Wisconsin government and politics, either with respect to its functions or a spring board enabling its occupants to win higher place.

A few lieutenant governors have been elected to the governorship. More of them have inherited the office upon the death of the man who was governor. It was not so long ago that a very old man held the governorship. When he insisted upon running for reelection against the counsel of many, he attracted so many contestants into the primary election for lieutenant governor that the Capitol press corps irreverently referred to them as "the pallbearers' club."

Gives More Exposure
In the long view, the office of attorney general is far superior as a place to prove the qualities of the ambitious statehouse politician and to give him favorable exposure to the public. The attorneys general of the last generation or so who did not manage to win more attractive and more important offices were the exceptions rather than the rule.

The political prominence of lieutenant governors in the last few years may show some evolution of the role.

It is quite possible that Warren Knowles in any event would have been elected governor in 1964, when the Republican state organization was looking for its best known and most acceptable candidate for that office. But surely the fact that he had served three terms as lieutenant governor, with the harvest of acquaintanceship and name familiarity that followed, figured in the calculations of the organization politicians.

Similarly, Pat Lucey is a logical and perhaps also the front running candidate of all of the Democrats being mentioned as potential gubernatorial nominees next year because he held the lieutenant governorship for a term. Thus he has a claim to a kind of apprenticeship served.

Olson Heir Apparent?
It is not entirely coincidence, moreover, that Republican Lt. Gov. Jack B. Olson is now regarded as Knowles' heir apparent because he has served three terms in the office. He has made four statewide campaigns which have made his name as widely known among voters of Republican persuasion, not to mention the organization captains, as that of any other Republican politician of rank who might be interested in the governorship next year.

As it happens, the office of lieutenant governor is now being upgraded at the same time that it is getting more recognition as an incubator of gubernatorial aspirants. Under the constitutional amendment adopted this year, the nominees for governor and lieutenant governor will run as a team — getting votes equally.

That amendment appears to indicate that they should also function as a team when they are elected. But such a change is not yet assured by the amendment. It will require statutory implementation.

The salary of the office, for example, continues at the nominal level of $7,500 a year. Most incumbents won't be inclined to perform more than their literal functions at such a modest rate of pay.

Vice Presidency Cited

The legislature here may well study the example of the gradual uplifting of the work and the responsibility of the office of vice president of the United States and consider an enlargement of the now minimal duties and powers of the lieutenant governor on those infrequent occasions that the governor has left the state.

One idea worth exploring is to make the lieutenant governor a kind of general assistant to the governor in keeping in contact with the numerous administrative agencies. He could be given a seat on such important and powerful agencies as the Building Commission. He could be a kind of roving ambassador to the many boards and commissions which have the power to make regulations with the effect of law. He might even be given a vote there as an elected agent of all the people of the state.

With such broadened tasks, future occupants of the office could truly claim to have some relevant experience when they aspire to the governorship.

Press Must Deserve Its Freedom Right

Editor, The Post-Crescent: Your editorial, "Did Agnew Get Idea from Greeks," gave me and I'm sure other readers a good idea of the new press code in Greece. How could such a code come to pass? Maybe a majority or near majority of the people of Greece lost faith in the integrity of the press. I don't know if this had anything to do with the imposition of this code, but it's possible that it helped.

It is evident, I believe, from the response of people to the news media regarding Vice President Agnew's speech that the majority responding (by the various television stations' own count), believe that the reporting of news and editorials could be more fair and honest.

Last week on television there was a one hour show regarding Vice President Agnew's speech. Not once that I can remember did any reporter say that Vice President Agnew said at least once, and clearly, that he was against censorship in any form. Your editorial did not mention this either! You did say that maybe Vice President Agnew picked up his ideas about the media here from the Greek Press Code. I say that the writer of this editorial does not believe that, not even the "maybe."

Amendment I of the United States Constitution has to do with our right of free speech, religion, press and assembly. It has been held however, that the right of free speech does not give a person the right to yell "Fire" in a crowded theater, does not permit a religion to offer human sacrifice and does not permit an assembly on a busy intersection to block traffic for an extended period of time.

Your freedom of the press is practically unabridged. I hope and pray it stays that way. If part of all of this freedom is lost don't blame the present President of the United States, Vice President, Senate, House of Representatives, citizens or the former administrations. Put the blame where it belongs-on the press (news media).

You have a great freedom, a great power and a greater responsibility. Don't expect the freedom and power with a small amount of responsibility or you will lose the freedom and power. It has always been this way.

Give us the facts, both sides of the story, no snide remarks and realize that most of your readers, viewers and listeners are of at least average intelligence.

Help us to respect your profession for the good of all of us.

Medication Is Help in Controlling of Epilepsy

BY GEORGE C. THOSTESON, numerous times I've mentioned M.D. Dr. Thosteson. When or ease attacks. you wrote about what to do for. It isn't quite as simple as you a person having epileptic sei stage if it isn't "a capsule." It zures. I was disturbed because can be any number of capsules. you didn't explain that there is with varied contents to suit a capsule to take every day that each individual patient. Dilantin will prevent anyone from having and phenobarbital are very a seizure. Of course, it must be taken on a doctor's advice. K.F.Y.

And I'm disturbed to realize that you haven't noticed the commonly used, but there are other drugs, the choice depending on the type of epilepsy and the patient's response. It is true that many patients, with such daily medication, go since been known as the Bath for years without attacks, but it is overrating the case to say that medication will "prevent anyone from having a seizure." It is probably safe to say that anyone can be helped, but in some severe cases even drugs cannot prevent all seizures.

Dear Dr. Thosteson, I need help bad. I have tried just about every kind of deodorant but they don't work. I perspire like mad. As long as my underarms don't touch clothing, the odor is okay, but as soon as I put something on, oh, boy. Do you have any idea what I could use? — R.L.P. P.S. I am a very nervous person.

I could have guessed at you. P.S. Nervous people are much more likely to perspire profusely, and as you grow older, you'll likely learn to take life more calmly.

For right now, remember

Sheinwold Bath Coup Wins Even If It Fails

A couple of centuries ago the sharp card players in the English resort town of Bath invented a coup which has ever since been known as the Bath Coup. When the king of the suit was led, the sharpie would play low from A-J-x. The unsuspecting opponent would continue the suit, and the sharpie would win a trick when the jack as well as the ace. still use the Bath Coup, but defenders are not so unsuspecting as they used to be. West leads the king of clubs, and South plays the low club, saving his ace-jack in the hope of executing the Bath Coup. If West leads another club, South will get two tricks in the suit. It's important to notice that South would go down if he took the first trick. East would win an early trick with the king of diamonds and would lead his other club. West would then take four club tricks, defeating the contract.

Suspicious Opponent
In this case West suspects that South is up to no good. Avoiding the trap, West shifts to the six of diamonds. The Bath Coup has failed, but South has succeeded in forcing West to abandon the attack on clubs. South must put up the ace of diamonds and leads the queen of spades for a finesse. West wins with the king of spades and leads his other diamond to the king. East returns a club, but South still has the ace. Declarer takes the ace of clubs and runs his nine tricks: two spades, three hearts, three diamonds, and one club. South might well go down if he took the diamond finesse at the second trick. East would win and would return a club. South would still make the contract if he took the ace of clubs and all of his red tricks, followed by an end play on West, but South would go down if he took a simple spade finesse. The actual play of refusing the diamond finesse protects South against a bad guess.

HINTS FROM Heloise

Dear Heloise:

I have a large picture window in my small house and no room for a Christmas tree. Two and a half yards of red nylon net came to my rescue. I screwed eight little cup hooks into the underside of the top window frame, stretched and fastened the net onto the cup hooks making a curtain. Then I took Christmas tree ornaments (no lights because of the fire hazard) and hung them "here" and "there" on the net.

The outline of a star or a tree would be appropriate, but you can use your own imagination, and who knows what the results might be! The Christmas curtain looks nice inside the house as well as outside, because the ornaments shine from the sun in the daytime and the lights on in the house at night.

Lynn Adair

Your idea of a Christmas curtain is just darling, makes a lovely Christmas card framed for a pregnancy to be as long as by the picture window. 10 months and a bit more. It is unusual to be two or three weeks off in one's calculation of the last period.

Christmas morning. And I'll just bet you will.

Heloise

Dear Heloise:

Just a note to thank all the women (and gentlemen, too) who have taken the time to share their hints with you — and me.

Sometimes the hints seem so simple I wonder why I never thought of them before. Wouldn't it be wonderful if everyone sent you a postcard with a hint she used today that she thinks we all know — and we don't? It's the simple hints that unprove my housekeeping.

Play the Turkey Game for Laughs On Christmas Eve

BY CAPPY DICK
The turkey game described as today's fun-project is a two-in-one challenge for Christmas eve visitors or Christmas dinner guests.
Figure out ahead of time how many people you will want to board and cut it up into a dozen or more pieces (see figure 2). Place the pieces of each turkey into a small envelope and print the title on the front as in figure 1.
Each player will need a pencil.
At the proper time, pass out the envelopes containing the turkey puzzles. Explain that for the player who is first to put his turkey together you will award a prize.
Also explain that once a winner of the jigsaw contest has been determined, the next step of this two-in-one stunt is for each guest to use his pencils and envelope to print all the words he can think of which can be formed from letters in turkey. State that you will award a prize to the player who produces the most "turkey words." Examples of suitable words are key, ye, yet, rut, try and true. There are others.
The prizes may be anything you choose. Discarded odds and ends you can find around the house will be satisfactory.

3 Youths Get Probation For Burglaries, Curfew

NEENAH — Three juveniles were placed on probation under the supervision of the County Social Services Department Thursday by Winnebago County juvenile judge James G. Sarres.

A 16-year-old Neenah youth was placed on a year's probation and had his driver's license suspended for 90 days when he was found to be delinquent. The youth was charged with running away from home from Oct. 19, 30 and the Oct. 12 burglary of Bob's Gulf service station, 1013 Main St. A case of anti-freeze and a case of oil were taken in the theft.

Judge Sarres placed a 12-year-old Menasha boy on one year's probation after finding him delinquent as the result of a Neenah Police Department arrest resulting from the Oct. 3 burglary at the Washington School.

Neenah Man Charged After Disturbance

OSHKOSH — A 20 year-old Neenah man pleaded guilty to disorderly conduct in Winnebago County Court Branch 3 Friday.

John L. Freund, 20, 1231 Campbell St., was arrested by Menasha police Thursday at Big Pete's Bar, 217 Main St. After he was taken to the station, it took four officers to subdue him and place him in jail, and similar restraint was needed in transferring him to the Winnebago County jail Thursday evening.

Freund was also charged with drunkenness Friday, but judge James V. Sitter ordered a plea of innocent entered after the defendant declines to enter a plea.

Trial on the drunkenness charge and sentencing for disorderly conduct has been set for Feb. 4.

Judge Sitter released Freund without bond.

Each grade will then sing numbers and the program will end with all singing "Silent Night."

North Central Reports Hike In Air Traffic

OSHKOSH — North Central Airline operated 45,857,615 revenue passenger miles in November, a 10 per cent increase over last year, and carried 238,102 passengers.

David E. Moran, vice president of traffic and sales, reported that the airline also flew 648,731 ton miles of cargo, including air freight, express, and mail in the 30-day period.

In the first 11 months of 1969, the company flew 555,843,549 revenue passenger miles, a gain of 18 per cent over last year. During this period, 2,970,777 passengers were transported — 8 per cent ahead of 1968 — and 7,545,533 cargo ton miles were flown for a 16 per cent increase.

Since inaugurating service in 1948, North Central has carried 22 million passengers 3.7 billion passenger miles. The airline presently serves 90 cities in 12 states and Canada over an 8,200 mile route system.

Construction Change Orders on Agenda For Menasha Board

MENASHA — The school board is to hold a brief meeting Monday night as it takes up routine matters during its regular meeting at 7 p.m. in the administrative offices.

Business manager Clayton Jackson will recommend two change orders, one in the communications system at Maplewood Junior High School, and the other at the maintenance building.

Both structures are currently under construction. The maintenance building is expected to be completed by mid-February, and the junior high by next September.

Dr. Alan Osterderf, superintendent, also will report on the microfilming of records.

County to Consider Cutting Back Wittman Field Terminal

OSHKOSH — Reduction of the proposed new $2.8 million airport terminal at Wittman Field here—possibly through elimination of a planned second story—will be considered by the Winnebago County Aviation Committee in two upcoming sessions.

In its 1970 budget sessions, the county board approved bonding for the new terminal. However, statute requires a 30-day period between preliminary and final approval, when bonding can be challenged by referendum.

Earlier this week, Supvs. Roland Kampe, Town of Menasha, Herman Brandt, towns of Omro and Utica, and Earl Holverson, Poygan-Winchester-Wolf River District, all opponents of the new terminal, announced they would present the county board with a resolution calling for a referendum when the board reconvenes its December session on Dec. 30.

Approval of the bonding proposal by the board in November stirred heavy opposition in sev-

Smashup on 41 Ramp Injures Four

A two-car accident Friday afternoon at Outagamie County Trunk E and the U. S. 41 exit ramp, 1 1/2 miles north of Appleton, injured four persons.

State police identified the drivers as Barbara L. Baer, 1420 Silvercrest Drive, who was taken to Appleton Memorial Hospital by ambulance for treatment of cut and leg cuts, and Larry J. Tullberg, 16, route 5, who suffered a forehead bruise.

Richard Scheibe, 16, 6044 Rosewood Drive, complained of chest pains, and Daniel L. Foth, 3904 N. French Road, suffered a hip injury. Scheibe and Foth, passengers in the Tullberg auto.

Police said the Appleton woman was westbound on the U. S. 41 ramp and pulled away from the stop sign as the Tullberg car was northbound on E. Both vehicles were extensively damaged.

To Force Referendum

Redevelopment Opponent To Seek Court Injunction

BY FRANK CHURCH

Post-Crescent Staff Writer

MENASHA — A temporary injunction to stop downtown redevelopment in Menasha until a referendum is held on the issue will be sought next week in Winnebago County circuit court.

That is the word from Robert Peterson, 210 Water St., Menasha, a spokesman for the group of Menasha residents who say they want to give voters a chance to let their "feelings be known" on the controversial issue.

Peterson said the group has consulted with attorneys and have decided to seek a temporary injunction some time early next week.

Peterson said his group was angered at the fact that the city could not account for petitions turned in last June asking for a referendum on the redevelopment issue.

"The city took the petitions, but they didn't take any action to call a referendum," Peterson said this morning. "We are going to take judicial action to try and force the city's hand."

"It will now be up to the courts to determine whether or not this redevelopment project should be put to a vote of the people," Peterson said. He claimed that if the issue were the subject of a vote, it would be turned down by over 80 per cent of Menasha residents.

"Utterly Silly"

City Atty. Richard Steffens, said it would be "utterly silly" to seek a temporary injunction against the Menasha Redevelopment Project because there are no grounds for the action.

"The MRA has done nothing for any justifiable reason for any injunction against redevelopment would be the commission of an illegal act."

"The MRA can be criticized, but they haven't done anything illegal," he said.

Advisory Petitions

He said the petitions filed with the city in June were any of the other individuals involved in the proposed action, other than to say they were "all those you've heard screaming in the last two weeks."

Steffens said injunctions have been sought against redevelopment and urban renewal projects in other cities in the United States, but that they have always failed.

"I can't conceivably see any reason to bring an injunction against" the redevelopment project, Steffens said.

Peterson declined to name

A number of Menasha residents have been outspoken lately in their opposition to higher taxes and the proposed downtown redevelopment project in Menasha, which will eventually mean an investment of $20 million, most of it in private monies, to rejuvenate the city's deteriorating commercial core.

Stop Action

The injunction they will seek, Peterson said, would aim to stop further action on redevelopment until the matter has been put up for a referendum.

Schlafer Ink, Supply Co. Sold

Controlling Interest of Companies Goes to SANCO of Appleton

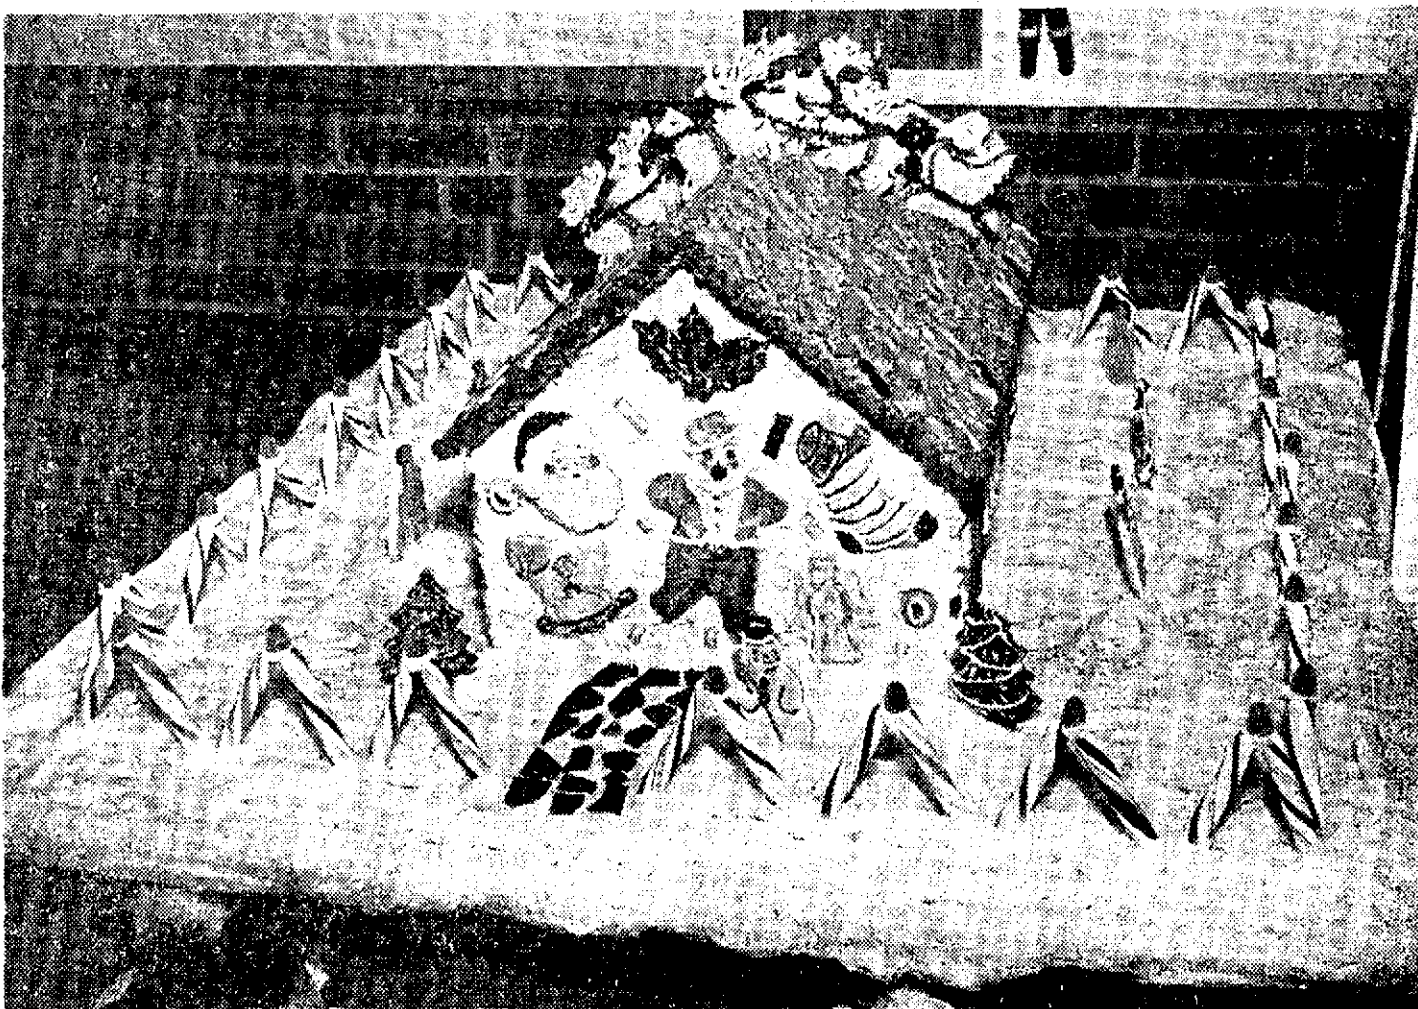

Purchase of controlling interest in Schlafer Supply Co. and Schlafer Ink Co., both operating out of 115 W. College Ave., Appleton, has been announced by F. John Barlow, president of SANCO, an Appleton-based investment company.

Barlow said Friday that SANCO — an associate firm of AZCO mechanical contractors, which he also heads — purchased 90 per cent of the stock of the two companies from John Donaldson, Naples, Fla. Donaldson, president of the companies, formerly of Appleton, was president of the companies, which he purchased in 1957.

R. W. Prenger was elevated from vice president and general manager of Schlafer's to president of the companies, Barlow said. Barlow is chairman of the board of Schlafer's.

Schlafer's operates the College Avenue retail store and a wholesale supply business out of the same address.

No terms of the purchase were announced.

'Circumstantial Evidence Too Strong,' Utke Declares

Air Force Move Won't Squelch Flying Saucer Hunt

OSHKOSH — A U. S. Air Force decision to abandon its flying saucer hunt isn't going to put the lid on the subject, Dr. Allen Utke predicted at Oshkosh State University last week.

He said the circumstantial evidence is too strong and that too many people are interested and concerned to have the matter drop.

Known for his study and research of unidentified flying objects (UFO) reports, Dr. Utke said the end of the government's project Blue Book might remove the "stamp of tolerance" it provided and give the public cause to conclude that UFOs are imaginary.

So far, that hasn't been proved to his satisfaction, however.

He maintains that neither the 21-year-old Blue Book project nor the so-called Condon committee study, headed by Dr. Edward U. Condon, University of Colorado physicist, provided the kind of in-depth study required to substantiate or disprove the existence of such objects.

The Air Force announced last week it is ending its project Blue Book which has kept voluminous files on reported sighting of UFOs. Dr. Condon had recommended that the government halt such research, referring to reported sightings as "lights in the sky."

It is too soon to predict what effect the move will have on other research, Dr. Utke said. It might result in new funding for studies by other than government agencies, he said. It might demoralize those already engaged in UFO study. It might well re-energize those programs.

His criticism is that the Condon committee required scientific evidence instead of researching the mass of circumstantial evidence, that, Dr. Utke says, is so overwhelming it could prove its case in any court.

"I'm convinced there is something there and in my own mind the vast amount of circumstantial evidence proves it," he declared.

Dr. Utke rates the probability of extraterrestrial sightings at about 60 per cent.

He said the Condon committee's own conclusions indicate the feasibility of an in-depth study. They looked into 100 reported sightings, he said, and were unable to identify 20 per cent of them. Public interest or concern, rated at 96 per cent by a Gallup poll in 1968, is another reason for study.

$2 Million Cost

Dr. Utke estimated that the question of whether unidentified flying objects really exist could be settled by a research project costing between $2 million and

$3 million a year for three years.

The country spends $28 million a year to kill weeds and $25 billion a year for research and development, he continued, a lot of it wasted on duplication and useless projects.

"The point is that for $5 to $10 million we could resolve the whole thing. It's ridiculous not to."

Dr. Utke is willing to conjecture about the purpose of UFOs if they do carry extraterrestrial beings. He leans toward the theory that Earth is under surveillance for some reason which he suspects can't be readily understood by human minds.

Warning that it is dangerous to tell the future by the past, he said he thinks weight can be given to the argument that "since humans haven't been harmed so far, the surveillance is friendly."

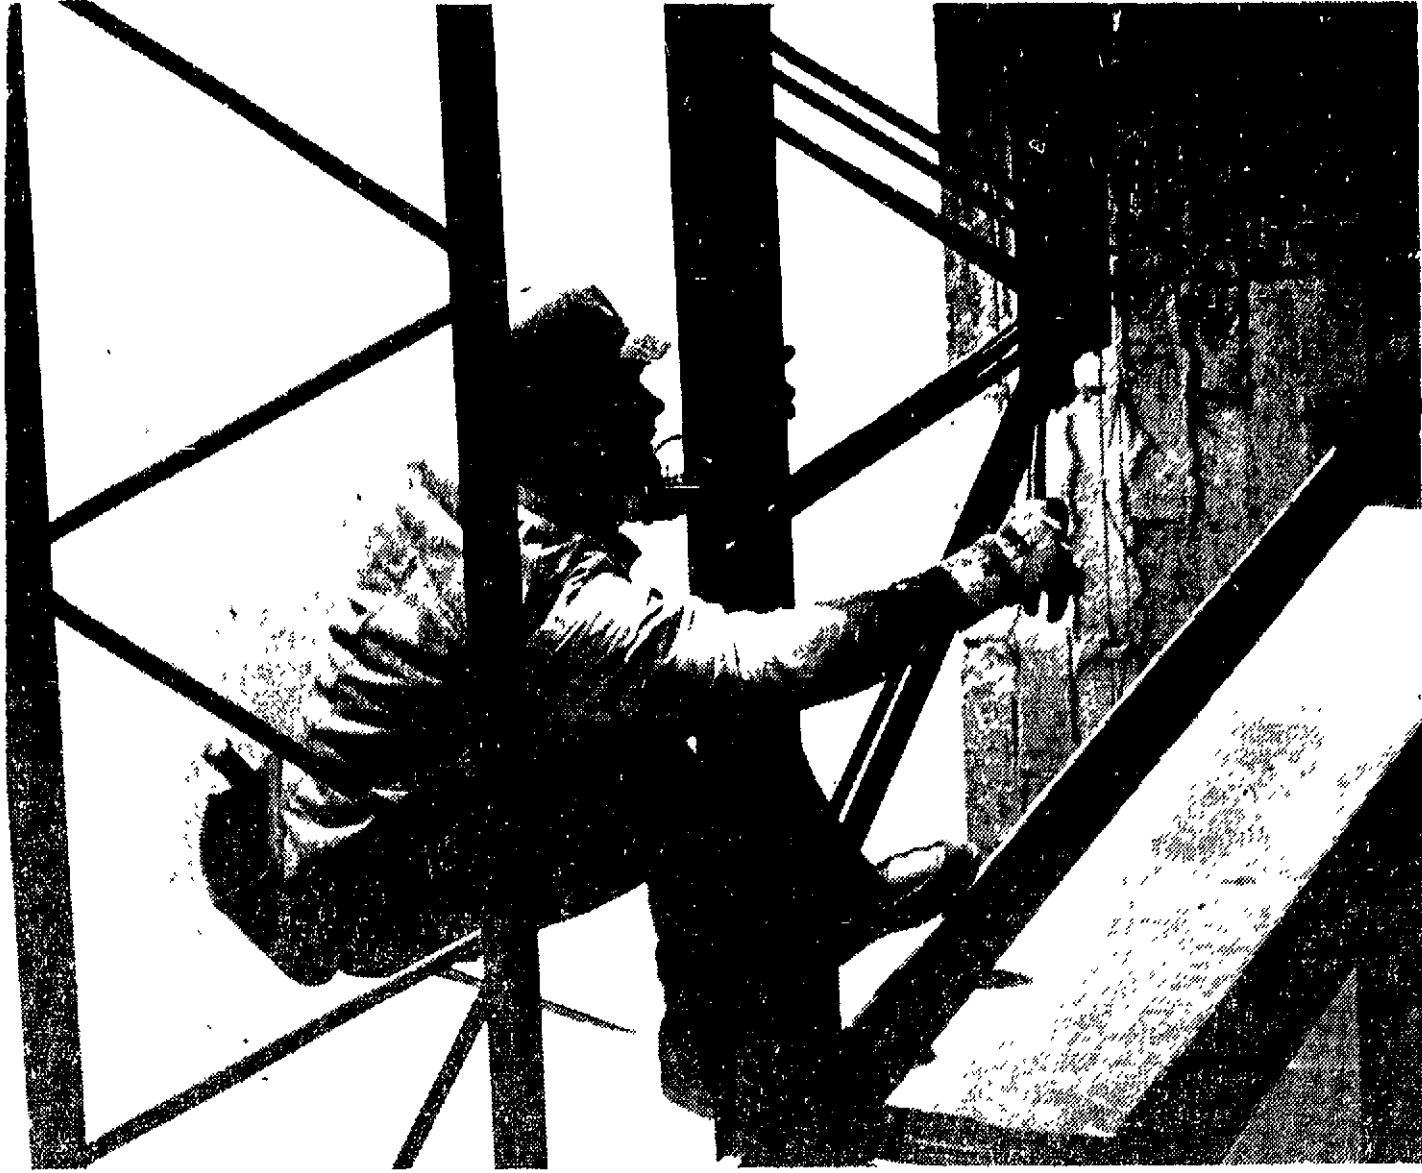

"Whatever the reason, they have a 20-year head start on us toward fulfilling it, if this is going on," he warned.

Project Blue Book, he said, didn't get most of the sightings of unidentified objects on or near the ground because most people are reticent about reporting and then usually talk only to close friends.

Those who do try to reach the authorities often get brushed off.

Recently, he said, he interviewed a UFO viewer in Bettendorf, Ia. She had called police when she sighted an object above a neighbor's house. The police laughed. Airport personnel suggested it was a jet, but the neighbor reported a red glow and the viewer drew a picture of the object she saw.

Government action isn't going to put the lid on UFO sightings or on private research, the OSU chemist predicts. It certainly isn't going to stop Dr. Utke's interest in flying saucers, who flies them, what they are, and if they are. He wants to know and he is convinced there are a lot of other people who do, too.

New Housing Law Won't Change Appleton Status

The current effort to establish low-rent housing for the elderly in Appleton is unlikely to be affected by newly passed federal legislation that is expected to make housing projects easier to come by for other Wisconsin communities.

But in the long run, drastic changes are expected in dealings between all communities and the federal government on a wide range of programs.

Lawrence Katz, Federal Housing Administration director for Wisconsin, said Friday he sees two reasons why the Appleton project would be unaffected.

First, one set of changes eliminates requirements needed previously for communities to qualify for housing funds. Appleton already has met the requirements so other elimination changes nothing for the current project.

Secondly, another modification will shift responsibility for administering federal housing programs to the state FHA offices from regional, multi-state offices of HUD, the federal Department of Housing and Urban Development.

Little Change

This might mean in later stages of the Appleton project local officials would be dealing with Katz' office in Milwaukee rather than the HUD office in Chicago. But, little else would change, Katz said.

Also, the administrative shift is expected to take time. "You are talking fall, 1970, at best," Katz estimated.

The legislation is awaiting President Nixon's signature, having been passed last week by a conference committee of the two houses of Congress.

The Wisconsin Division on Aging sent out a letter this week advising state communities to continue to follow current HUD guidelines until the changes are made.

New Guidelines

Once the legislation is signed into law, new guidelines will be written.

The alterations are in line with efforts pushed by HUD Secretary George Romney to make subsidized housing more readily available to communities, partly by untying federal "strings" that previously have been attached to the programs, and to undo some red tape, Katz said.

To cut the federal strings, the new law will eliminate the previous requirement for communities first to adopt a Workable Program for Community Development, a set of requirements that have proven to be insurmountable in some communities and a major hurdle universally.

HUD Demands

Particularly troublesome have been HUD demands to adopt and enforce minimum housing standards community-wide.

Appleton is currently attempting to renew the workable program that was in force the past two years but which expired Nov. 1. The city is encountering difficulty, but previously had been told the current housing project could proceed without recertification of the program by HUD since the program had progressed far enough under the previous one.

Any future housing project here could be undertaken whether the workable program is renewed or not, however.

According to Jack Hetu, Appleton planning director, a HUD official advised him by telephone earlier this week that renewal of workable programs in the future may become tougher as a result of their removal as a requirement for housing.

The workable program is still to be a requirement for other types of programs such as urban renewal grants, so there still is reason for communities to adopt the programs. But

'Order in the Court'

What started with an over-zealous greeting to a county judge cost an Appleton woman and her male "sympathizer" each $25 late Friday afternoon.

Marilyn Kasuboski, 40, and John Konezal, 36, both of 928 W. Kamps Ave., were cited for contempt after an outburst in Outagamie County Court Branch 2.

It all started about 4:30 p.m. as Judge Nick F. Schaefer was conducting arraignment proceedings for a man charged with a morals offense.

Mrs. Kasuboski, as she was walking through the third floor hallway in front of the courtroom shouted, "Hya Judge." There were about 20 persons in the courtroom.

An annoyed Schaefer asked an Appleton detective to bring the woman into the courtroom.

Mrs. Kasuboski identified herself and said she should be greeted because she knows the judge. She admitted she had been drinking. Schaefer said he did not recognize her.

He asked a state probation and parole agent to confer with her.

It was then that Konezal got into the act by talking aloud from his seat in the courtroom.

Schaefer, with a stern rap of his gavel, ordered the courtroom "so quiet I can hear a pin drop."

The quiet didn't last long. Konezal started talking again. Policemen in the courtroom quoted him as mumbling, among other things, "It's not funny," and "I love her."

Schaefer found him in contempt, slapped him with a $25 fine and ordered him removed from the courtroom.

History Repeats

Moments later Mrs. Kasuboski again started talking aloud in the courtroom.

Removal proceedings were conducted by Dist. Atty. James R. Long and Appleton and Outagamie County policemen. It was the first time since Schaefer became judge, in April 1968, that he has punished his contempt powers.

Mrs. Kasuboski and Konezal were whisked to jail. Jailers said she had been there earlier inquiring about a man who Friday morning was jailed when he couldn't pay a $35 fine for public intoxication. He had raised the fine money shortly before her arrival.

Konezal was able to raise the fine money shortly after being booked in. He and the man who paid his fine then went out and rounded up Mrs. Kasuboski's fine funds.

She was freed about 1 1/2 hours after the cell door closed.

As she boarded the jail elevator, she wished her captors a "Merry Christmas."

Counties Ask Delay In Districting Plan

Area Officials Stress Task Force Evaluation

Post-Crescent News Service

GREEN BAY — Representatives of 20 counties asked Governor Warren Knowles Friday afternoon to hold up his state administrative districting plan in northeastern Wisconsin until a special task force can finish its evaluation of district boundaries.

The unanimous resolution was adopted by about 75 county officials meeting here to hear how a governor's task force appointed to study the issue of districting would be able to sample local opinion to form a basis for recommending whether district boundaries need changing.

Gov. Knowles said state district boundaries were provisional for one year when he ordered the districting plan last summer. He allowed for changes when "persuasive reasons exist for a different alignment."

Recommendations Made

Appleton industrialist John Reeve, task force chairman, told the Green Bay conference a boundary recommendation would be made to the governor no later than June 1, 1970.

The county conferees, most of whom have been appointed advisers to the task force, were given questionnaires on which they could suggest objectives for the task force study.

Reeve said the county advisory group probably would be asked to meet at least twice more as the study progresses.

"In this area, there may be substantial change (in district boundaries)," said Roger L. Schrantz, State Planning Bureau director and chairman of the Interagency Committee on Districting.

The districting plan, recommended by Schrantz's interagency committee, was put into effect by executive order of the governor. The plan divides Wisconsin into eight districts in which state agencies are to plan projects and programs on a regional scale.

Decentralization Plan

Reasons for the plan are to decentralize state government, bring it closer to the people, and to end a bodge-podge of independent administrative areas for separate state agencies.

Local planners say the districts are likely to be recognized as the official planning units by the federal government.

Several counties in northeastern Wisconsin — with Brown County among the more vocal — complain the governor's districts do not link counties in this area with economic and geographical ties.

Brown County is in the East Central District with Menominee, Shawano, Waupaca, Outagamie, Door, Kewaunee, Manitowish, Winnebago, Calumet and Outagamie County and Fond du Lac and Sheboygan counties.

As a challenge to the district boundaries, Brown County is proposing a five or seven-county regional planning grouping from Marinette County in the north to Sheboygan County in the south, excluding other Fox Valley Bay-Lake Commission counties to the south.

Proponent have given the suggested alignment the name of Bay-Lake Regional Planning Commission.

Marinette and Oconto counties are included in the Northeast District — a predominantly rural-oriented grouping — but the two want to be in the same district as Brown County.

The governor has acknowledged disagreement over boundaries in Northeastern Wisconsin, Schrantz admitted. He said in the tentative administrative framework should continue to take place, subject to the clear understanding that the boundaries may well be changed again in the near future."

Gordon A. Bubolz, Northeastern Wisconsin Regional Planning Commission chairman, said, "It would be difficult to create these districts and then undo them."

He proposed the resolution asking Knowles to stop districting implementation until the task force report is received, and local officials have had a chance to express opinions about boundaries.

Dr. Raymond D. Vlasin, University of Wisconsin-Green Bay assistant chancellor, an authority on planning who is vice chairman of the task force, explained what the boundary study would include.

He announced that Richard Wilson of Madison, a member of the Department of Local Affairs and Development, has been attached temporarily to the task force as liaison with county governments.

Vlasin said the task force itself would be comprised of 20 persons selected from the 75-member advisory committee. He said that, in addition, a technical study group of 12 professional planners, engineers and administrators, chaired by Vlasin, would work with the advisory committee.

Other Counties Invited

He said chairmen of counties outside the Northeast and East Central districts would be invited to participate in the study since their areas would be affected by district boundaries which are finally decided in the northeast.

Five objectives which state districts offer local government, according to Vlasin, are:

— Being the vehicle by which local government can get more efficient state services.

— Stimulating multi-county cooperation in improvement of public services.

— Providing a framework for more efficient services from federal agencies, such as the Economic Development Administration, Department of Agriculture and Department of Housing and Urban Renewal.

— Strengthening economic ties between growth centers and outlying communities.

Enhancing Ties

— Enhancing educational, social and cultural ties between groups of communities.

"Unfortunately, it is unlikely that one set of districts can meet each of these five objectives equally well," Vlasin said in prepared remarks.

Charles Hill, secretary-appointee of the Department of Local Affairs and Development, left after delivering a brief message from the governor which said the concept of the districting is solid.

"What is subject to debate are the boundaries themselves," he said.

11 Persons Injured in Five Appleton Crashes

Five Appleton traffic accidents Friday and early today injured 11 persons, several of whom were hospitalized.

Two teenagers were hospitalized about 1:30 a.m. today after a two-car accident at S. Madison Street and E. Wilson Avenue at Meade and Roosevelt Streets, 3:25 p.m. Friday.

Drivers involved were Joseph Marciniak, 51, 328 N. Wilson St., and Kimberly, who suffered a bruised left side, and Steve Ottone, 17, 16 Reinke Court, who suffered a forehead abrasion.

Mrs. Marciniak suffered a bruised right leg and foot. Two passengers in Ottone's car were hurt: Dean Krause, 17, 225 E. Taft Ave., was taken by ambulance to St. Elizabeth Hospital for treatment of right leg injuries, and James Groth, 18, whose address was not listed, suffered a bruised right arm.

Eastbound on Wilson

Appleton police said Marciniak was eastbound on Wilson and the Ottone car was southbound on Madison.

Mrs. Raymond Bartel, 2512 N. Viola St., was taken by ambulance to Appleton Memorial Hospital about 4:40 p.m. Friday after a car driven by her husband was struck from behind in a three-car chain-reaction accident on N. Oneida Street near E. North Street.

Appleton Father Dies in Train Crash

LITTLE CHUTE — A rural Western Railway Co. passenger train en route from Appleton to Green Bay, killed Friday night when his car was rammed broadside by a 70-mile-per-hour passenger train.

Daniel Carney, 28, route 5, died almost instantly of severe head injuries, according to C. J. Schink, Outagamie County deputy coroner.

Little Chute police said Carney, who was alone in his car, saw the approaching auto only seconds before the crash. He said the automatic signals at the Depot Street crossing were operating and the train whistle was blowing. The accident occurred at 9 p.m.

Police and ambulance attendants had to pry apart the wreckage to remove Carney's body.

Carney's 1960 auto was dragged 385 feet before it left the tracks. The train continued another one-half mile before it stopped.

Train engineer L. R. Michels had dropped off several fellow employees just before the accident.

The body was released to the Greenwood Funeral Home of Kaukauna.

Appleton West Retains Lead In Valley Conference With 59-54 Win Over Cardinals

BY JOHN L. PAUSTIAN

Exhibiting a typically strong finish, Appleton West's undefeated Terrors shook off a 25-point deficit in the second half, dogged Fond du Lac High school basketball team to win their seventh straight game, 59-54, here Friday night.

In retraining the undisputed Fox River Valley Conference lead, the Terrors ran their league record to 6-0 and increased their margin over Fondy — one of the closest pursuers — to two games. Neenah, victorious over Manitowoc last night, now holds second place alone, trailing AHS-W by one game.

It looked like a lark for the Terrors last night, as they reeled off a 15-5 lead in the first 5 minutes, 50 seconds. But the Cardinals proved a tough breed of bird. Though they played without high-scoring Bill Olson (who suffered an ankle injury in practice a few days ago), the Cards scrapped back and wiped out the last bit of their 10-point deficit with 1:09 left in the half. Steve O'Neill, who had tied the game, at 26-all, with a free throw, then put Fondy ahead for the first and only time in the game 11 seconds from half-time. With three seconds left, Stan Moulton-Peddie re-tied the score for AHS-W.

The Terrors scored first in the second half on a Rich Reitzner drive, and never reveal fairly substantial leads (such as 38-30 and 47-40), but each time the Cards appeared ready to be knocked out, they made another run at AHS-W to close the gap.

The last such gesture came with 2:36 left in the game, as Roy Asmus' 15-footer narrowed the difference to 51-50. Twelve seconds later, Reitzner took a pass from Tim Moriarty and boosted the lead to three. Moriarty came right back on a layup, for a 55-50 lead, with 1:57 to go.

After Rick Koeck answered with a field goal, Reitzner, a paragon of poise under pressure most of the game, parted the cords twice from the free throw line, and the score stood at 57-52, with 1:12 left. Fondy was unable to do anything with the Terrors' busy zone defense, and West's Scott Hanson added more insurance (with 35 left) on a free throw.

NEENAH — Neenah coach Ron Einerson can readily agree with the wise old coach who once asserted that a team can never score enough points in a basketball game.

The Rockets saw Manitowoc High School cut into their handsome lead with a 32-point fourth period explosion but it wasn't enough and the locals walked off the Ole Jorgensen Gym floor with an 81-72 Fox River Valley Conference triumph to their credit Friday night.

The verdict was the sixth in a row for the Twin Citians and left them still one game away from Appleton West's pace with a 5-1 FRVC mark. The loss all but eliminated Manty from the title picture with a 2-4 log.

Neenah started firing its big guns early and never trailed in the game. It held a comfortable 41-26 halftime advantage and a still healthier 62-40 margin at the close of three segments.

Moriarty was unable to get his usual quota of inside shots in the face of Fondy's tight man-to-man defense, but he came up with 12 points on four of nine field attempts and four of five foul shots. Moriarty was invaluable as a rebounder, picking off 17 missed shots to spur AHS-W to an over-all 41-30 board advantage.

Jerry Arnoldussen contributed eight points to the Terror total before fouling out with 3:45 left to play.

The husky Koeck was Fondy's pace-maker, with 19 points, and Roy Asmus chipped in with 14.

AHS-W's eventual point superiority came via free throw shooting. Both teams made 21 baskets, on rather ordinary shooting nights (36.2 per cent for West, and 33.9 per cent for Fondy). The Terrors, however, sank 17 of 25 foul shots, while the Cards had to settle for 12 of 23.

Wildcats Fall to LC By 77-51

BY TOM VANDERPAS
 LITTLE CHUTE — Saving their ball-hawking tactics for the outset of the second half, Little Chute's unbeaten Mustangs broke away from a slim, 35-28, intermission advantage and went on from there to rout Wittenberg, 77-51, in a Central Wisconsin Conference clash here Friday night.

The win was the sixth in a row in league action for the Chuters and their eighth overall, while the Wildcats dropped their third consecutive loop contest after notching three triumphs to open the campaign.

The Mustangs forged ahead to stay with 5:18 left in the first period on a pair of free throws by Bob Hackel, but the Maroons stayed within range, despite 13 first-half points by Bill Fitzpatrick and a dozen by his brother Mike.

The third canto proved decisive, however, as Little Chute picked up the tempo and caused a barrage of turnovers in spurring for 11 quick tallies, while limiting the visitors to a lone charity loss, in surging to a 46-29 lead.

Mike Fitzpatrick led the game-breaking charge with five markers, while Bill netted four and Bob Hackel flipped in a two-pointer.

Outsourcing Wittenberg, 22-6, in that frame, the Mustangs were in complete command, 57-34, and the reserves were ushered in for much of the closing canto.

The Fitzpatrick twins topped the winners in scoring, each with 21 points, while Bob Hackel contributed 13.

Barry Hartleben and Scott Hanson paced the Wildcats with 14 and 12 tallies, respectively.

The Chuters found the cords at a 41 per cent clip, meshing 28 of 29 tries, while the losers converted 17 of 50 attempts for a 34 per cent mark.

Alcindor Scores 25 Bucks Tip Celtics for 5th Straight, 115 to 111

MILWAUKEE (AP) — It was a close call, but the Milwaukee Bucks posted their fifth consecutive victory Friday night by edging the Boston Celtics 115-111.

The victory string is one less than Milwaukee's record set last year.

The Bucks, in third place in the National Basketball Association's Eastern Division and seven games out of first place, were sailing along with a 13-point lead, 107-94 when 7-foot-2 rookie Lew Alcindor committed his sixth foul and left the game.

Then John Havlicek put on a one-man show to bring the defending champion Celtics to within one point, 112-111, with 15 seconds remaining in the contest.

Defense falters. Alcindor fouled out with 2:08 showing on the clock. Larry Siegfried's two free throws started the Boston comeback. Then Don Nelson and Satch Sanders pumped in two-pointers before Milwaukee's tight defense came apart at the seams.

Several times in the waning seconds, the Bucks kicked the ball out of bounds, committed needless fouls or threw the ball away. Each time, Boston converted the mistakes into two-point plays.

After Havlicek's two frees threw sliced the margin to 112-107, Milwaukee, Boston stole two

Patriots Top Oshkosh East Defense Key To 59-46 Victory

BY BOB GNERLICH

OSHKOSH — Appleton East top Oshkosh High with an un-nerving defense, allowing the Indians just 30 points in the first three quarters of the game to win, 59-46, here Friday night.

The result gave East a 4-2 record in Fox River Valley Conference play, while Oshkosh dropped to 2-4.

AHS-E played an aggressive man-in-man defense that had the Indians bearing footsteps, particularly in the second and third quarters when they were held to 7 and 9-point productions.

Meanwhile, 5-7 Steve Krueger tore apart the Oshkosh press almost single-handedly with his fancy ball-handling and he directed a deliberate offense that often allowed East shooters to be unmoored.

Scores 20 Points

His running mate at guard, junior Don Werner, led all scorers with 20 points and scored 11 of them in the third quarter. In that period, he had all but one of East's points.

Forward Nick Milhaupt added 16 points, 12 of them coming in the first half. Mike Flanigan popped in 16 points to lead Oshkosh scoring. Mark Luther, the Indians' top point-producer, going into the game, was held to nine points.

If the East defense wasn't enough trouble, the Indians had problems making what shots they could get. Oshkosh didn't take a shot until three minutes had passed, but they kept cold-shooting East from running up a lead and so no damage was done.

The lead see-sawed back and forth throughout the first period and called up a second year East strung together five inch 210-pound receiver from straight points. Oshkosh's Mike Auburn.

Heron has suffered from a shot from mid-court at the back injury most of the season.

Ghost Win Streak of 3 Snapped

TWO RIVERS — Kaukauna's 3-game win streak and hopes for a share of the Mid-Eastern Conference lead were both ended Friday night as the Purple Raiders of Two Rivers scored a 67-62 basketball triumph.

The hosts took advantage of their edge on the charity line to score the win and remain undefeated in the league with a 5-0 mark. The Ghosts are now 3-2. Two Rivers converted 15 of 26 free throws while Kaukauna had only 10 chances and made six.

Kaukauna held a 9-7 led midway through the first quarter but a Ted Rulsen field goal and two free throws by Steve Stoll put the Raiders ahead for good. Two Rivers led, 15-14, at the end of the initial quarter. The hosts held a 31-26 half time margin.

Kaukauna trailed, 47-41, after three frames and were down by nine, 51-42, early in the fourth period. The Ghosts rallied and pulled within four, 62-58, midway through the quarter but Two Rivers slowed down the game's tempo and coasted home with the victory.

Each team had four players in double figures with the Raiders' Rulsen leading the way with 19 on nine field goals and a free throw. Stoll added 16 while John Hoffman had 13 and Gary Rosmarynoski tallied 11 for the winners.

Al Borchardt led Kaukauna with 18. Karl Mueller scored 16 and Jack Kempen and Leon Franke marked 11 points each. Franke came into the game as the league's leading scorer with an 18-point average.

Two Rivers hit on 26 of 52 field goal tries, for 50 per cent. Kaukauna shot at a 56 per cent clip hitting 27 of 56 shots.

KAUKAUNA (14-12-15-21-62) Borchardt 8 9 3; Mueller 8 9 3; Kempen 5 9 3; Franke 5 5 3; Kohn 1 4 5; Behnke 0 0 1. Totals 27 6 20. FTM-4. TWO RIVERS (15-14-20-47) Rulsen 9 9 3; Stoll 4 4 3; Hoffman 3 3 1; Rosmarynoski 5 1 0; Sinkula 2 0 0; Rhoads 0 0 1. Totals 26 15 6. FTM-11.

6:30-7:30 Channel 5 — There are few holiday "family" shows that equal the combination charm and entertainment as the annual family gathering of the Williams clan, tonight titled "The Andy Williams Christmas Show." He is joined by his wife (Claudine Longet), his parents, brothers Dick, Don and Bob and the happy assortment of nieces, nephews, a sister and brother-in-law and all those children. An added ingredient, and well worth it, are the Osmond Brothers. One of the show's features is its medley of Christmas hits and another is when they join the Williams Brothers for "Jingle Bells."

8:30 - 9:30 Channels 11-9 — Perry Como makes one of his rare TV appearances as the host of "The Hollywood Palace." As he points out, it's a reunion of sorts, with Perry again working with several of the people who helped produce his old TV series including producer Nick Vanoff and choral director Ray Charles. The program, however, is Hollywood Palace and not a Perry Como special, and you'll be able to see the obvious difference. Among the features are Perry's Christmas medley (naturally), Diana Ross (naturally), and a performance by the Duke Kahanamoku Hawaiian Big Wave Surfing classic to the opening competition of the World Cup Alpine Skiing Championship.

6:30-7:30 Channels 2-7 — One of the most memorable features in the long run of "The Jackie Gleason Show" is his annual Christmas treat, a blend of music and fantasy wrapped around the enigmatic charm of the Poor Soul. As usual, the simple fellow is both bedazzled and befuddled by the Yuletide activities going around all around him, until he falls asleep and is visited by a fairy princess. She leads him into an enchanted world and introduces him to the Old Woman Who Lives in a Shoe, Goldilocks and the Three Bears, the Shoemaker and the Elves, Little Bo-Peep, Alice in Wonderland, Rumpelstiltskin, Beauty and the Beast and Old King Cole.

7:30-8 Channels 2-7 — Young Dottie gets her introduction into the ways of feminine wiles when she has to cope with the obstreperous natures of boys as

7:30-8 Channel 5 — The Adam 12 officers run the usual gamut tonight from a domestic problem that requires them to deal with a lion to a gang of young hoods who try to stop them from arresting a narcotics suspect.

8:30 Channels 2-7 — The second person to learn the lesson of female ways is Sam Drucker on "Green Acres." He does it the hard way, since he is given fair warning by Oliver that if he allows Lisa to open a cosmetics department in his store, he's in for trouble.

8:10-15 Channel 5 — Damon Runyon fans get a treat in "Pocketful of Miracles" on Saturday Night. At the Movies, Bettie Davis stars as Apple Annie in this adaptation of "Madame La Gimp," with Glenn Ford as her benefactor. Dave the Dude comes to the rescue when she needs a disguise to impress her visiting daughter and her wealthy fiancé. The excellent supporting cast includes Peter Falk, Hope Lange, Thomas Mitchell, Sheldon Leonard, Barton MacLane and Edward Everett Horton.

8:30-9 Channels 2-7 — Petticoat Junction is paintedly predictable tonight. It's another obvious difference. Among the features are Perry's Christmas medley (naturally), Diana Ross (naturally), and a performance by the Duke Kahanamoku Hawaiian Big Wave Surfing classic to the opening competition of the World Cup Alpine Skiing Championship.

4:5-5:30 Channels 11-9 — ABC's "Wide World of Sports" is another study in extremes going from the sun and surf of the Duke Kahanamoku Hawaiian Big Wave Surfing classic to the opening competition of the World Cup Alpine Skiing Championship.

Glad You Asked That

BY HY GARDNER

Q: An organization I've heard about called "Mended Hearts" — has it got something to do with "broken hearts" or genuine heart ailments? —P.K., Cleveland.

A: Strictly medical. Confined to heart surgery survivors, it provides advice, encouragement, and services to heart surgery patients. Mended Hearts was conceived in 1951 by four post-surgery patients of Dr. Dwight E. Harken, chief of thoracic surgery at Boston's Peter Bent Brigham Hospital. Some 4,500 members are now enrolled in 23 U.S. chapters and six overseas. Write George E. Wanketo, of Long Island Chapter No. 45, 173-07 65th Ave.,

Flushing, N. Y., for further information.

Q: Wish you'd settle an argument. I claim a wholesome movie like "Funny Girl" is being outgrossed by a "stag" movie like "Curious Yellow." My husband disagrees. Who's right? — Linda Patterson, Mountainside, N. J.

A: He's right. Up to late November, the Streisand picture took in $15,251,205 at the box office while "Curious" has raked in $6,368,451. However, if you compare the gross against the investment, the nudie movie is making more — a gross, in insult to the intelligence of moviegoers.

Q: I heard where some hippie, on an LSD trip at the Palm Beach Rock Festival, took a swing at Florida's Gov. Claude Kirk. Did the Governor hit back? — P. B. R., Omaha.

A: Fortunately for the hopped-up hippie — no. Or his trip would have ended abruptly. Gov. Kirk, a Marine veteran, graduated OCS (with classmate Robert Finch, Secretary of HEW), was a D-1 (drill instructor) specializing in judo and karate. And, like his party's symbol, the elephant, never forgets!

Q: Wasn't it Joe DiMaggio who once said, "Catching a fly ball is a pleasure — but knowing what to do with it after you catch it is a business?" — Ben Dunn, Oakland, Cal.

A: No. It was teammate Tommy Henrich — back when the unbeatable New York Yankees "owned" both leagues.

Q: Is it true that Imogene Coca once tore up a million-dollar contract because she was bored with television? — Ben Brody, Hartford, Conn.

A: Here's the way Imogene explains it: "I didn't actually tear up anything. I just had it cancelled. The network lawyer tried to talk me out of the

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Please say something to mothers who slap their children across the face, slam things over their heads and call it "discipline." My daughter-in-law and her 7-year-old son live with me. It breaks my heart the way she cracks the boy in the mouth when he interrupts her. I've seen her box his ears one minute and slap him the next because he didn't obey her. I'm sure the child didn't obey her because he couldn't hear. My son is in Vietnam. When I write I always say, "Everything is wonderful at home. Don't worry." It's not true, Ann. The child's mother has a terrible temper and she takes out a lot of her anger on the boy. What should I do? Concerned.

DEAR CONCERNED: Suggest to the child's teacher that she advise the mother to take him to a doctor to get his hearing checked. Then tip off the doctor so he can warn your hot-tempered daughter-in-law against beating the youngster on the head. You will then not be labeled an interfering mother-in-law and you will have achieved the desirable results.

Appleton Father Dies in Train Crash

LITTLE CHUTE — A rural Daniel Carney, 28, route 5, Appleton father of four was died almost instantly of severe head injuries, according to C. J. Schink, Outagamie County deputy coroner.

School Tax Levies

Senate Committee

Okays Adjustment

RACINE (AP) — A committee of the Wisconsin Senate gave approval Friday to a bill permitting adjustment of school tax levies to municipalities so as to reflect the most current equalized property valuation figures.

The Labor, Taxation, Insurance and Banking Committee, chaired by Sen. Gerald Lorge, D-Bear Creek, voted unanimously to recommend passage of the measure.

The committee heard seven witnesses in Racine and all favored the proposal.

Year-Old Data

Currently, tax levies to individual municipalities are allocated on the basis of year-old, unadjusted valuations because of equalization valuations because of equalized figures.

The committee also decided to recommend passage of a bill implementing a Tarr Task Force recommendation that a study committee examine and codify existing state laws on local and regional planning.

Statutes covering such matters presently appear in 15 different chapters.

The survey is expected to take five years and cost slightly more than $90,000, with the county paying half of the cost. The board has provided $10,000 in the 1970 budget for that year's work.

Approximately 193,000 acres will be completely surveyed in the county and previous work on the remaining 200,000 will be correlated and, if necessary, updated by the SCS.

The only towns completely surveyed are Grand Chute and Buchanan, which were surveyed by the Fox Valley Council of Governments (COG).

Randy Briggs, SCS official youths from Iowa and Scandi-navia arrested and held this Federal Land Bank for 25 years; and had been a director of local livestock shipping association and the Consumer's Store.

Services will be at the Eberhardt and Hoh Funeral Home, 1101 W. Main St., Appleton, Wis., at 10 a.m. Monday.

The Rev. Daniel Stahmer, pastor of the United Methodist Church, will officiate.

Late Thursday, Robert A. Paske, 18, route 1, Scandinavia, was released on a recognizance bond of $2,500, and Darrel Remington, 19, Iowa, was released on a $2,500 cash bond. Both are to appear at 3:30 p.m. Monday for preliminary hearing.

Two 17-year-old juveniles, released from Iowa were released Wednesday with field work under the supervision of the permitted. Reports and maps Waupaca Social Services Department will be drawn during the winter.

Herbie Schneider Home

BY ALICE CONNORS
Post-Crescent Correspondent
BROTHER TOWN — A house filled with children and music.

Such is the Herbie Schneider home in this tiny hamlet in rural Chilton, where "living" revolves around God and music. At almost any time, one can hear music coming from the Schneider residence — old-time, modern, and even classical.

Herbie and his wife, Theresa, are the parents of 11 children, ranging from age four to 23, all of whom have had musical training from the time they were tiny tots.

Herbie, 53, has his own orchestra, which appropriately consists entirely of his own family, including his wife, who plays the piano, and daughter, Phyllis Menting, who sometimes does the vocal selections when not on tour or entertaining at nightclubs.

Music is not a recent way of life for the Schneiders, but dates back more than half a century as both parents' fathers were competent artists. Began at 15

Music and Kids and Music

Herbie began his career at age 15, when he played the accordion at house parties; was a member of the high school band, and played the saxophone with a German band. In 1936, he began playing with various orchestras, and later as a soldier, was part of the Army band and orchestra of the 32nd Division.

His brother, Roman, claims responsibility for Herbie's career, saying he kept prodding him to get to his lessons on time. Roman's sons have a combo and often join their uncle's orchestra.

There are other family orchestras, Herbie admits, but he believes his is one of the largest. His son, Howie, 22, plays trumpet. A music major at State University, Oshkosh, he also does some of the arrangements for the orchestra. Leslie, 21, plays saxophone, clarinet, and accordian, when needed. The regular drummer, Eugene, 19, is in the Air Force, so Wayne, 17, has switched from trumpet to drums. Stan plays the brass horn and is the senior choir organist at Holy Trinity parish, Jericho, a position all the Schneider children have held. Larry, 13, is the junior choir organist. Other avid keyboard performers include Patti, 11, Joanne, 9, and Deanna, 7.

"Second Herbie"

Kevin, four, is a little young yet for the family band, but he helps, nonetheless, gathering up the music and carrying Dad's saxophone case before engagements. "I'm sure at the rate he's going with the love of music," Mrs. Schneider says, "he will be a second Herbie."

Mrs. Schneider says that all her children, and herself, started on the piano, taking lessons from the same teacher, Mrs. Ann Klinkner, of Chilton. Music fills the house every day, she observes, with just about every available room devoted to the children practicing either the piano or their instruments. The family

Appeal Rejected for Judgment in Suit

State Court Upholds Ruling
By Dohr in Appleton Firm's Case

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — The State Supreme Court held Friday that County Judge Raymond P. Dohr of Outagamie County ruled correctly when he refused to grant a summary judgment in favor of a minority stockholder in an Appleton trucking service corporation who had sued for dissolution of the firm on the ground of incompetent management by the majority stockholders.

The high court ruled on an appeal by Clarence Grognet, one-third stockholder and a former employee of the Fox Valley Truck Service, who had sued for an involuntary dissolution of the company in which John S. Toppins holds about two-thirds of the stock, his father A. Toppins owns one share and unsatisfactory and that the

both are directors and officers

Holds for 15 Months

Judge Dohr, after holding the motion for summary judgment under a 15-month delay, denied it on the grounds that the affidavits and the complaint offered by Grognet contained conclusions of law and also presented material issues of fact not determined.

Chief Justice E. Harold Ilwaco of the state court wrote the opinion which noted that there is doubt about a genuine agreement between the parties over management and an impasse has been reached.

He noted that Grognet attempted to examine the books and records of the company and that the Toppins own one share and unsatisfactory and that the defendants refused to answer questions on the ground that any answer might tend to incriminate them.

Claims Fraudulent Act

The question of whether the witnesses should answer was put to the trial court and while a pending Grognet brought his motion for summary judgment, claiming that the refusal of the officers of the corporation to answer his ground under the Fifth amendment was an illegal and fraudulent act.

The appeals court said there should be a trial on the facts and the serious question of management of a corporation cannot be resolved upon affidavits and became a summary judgment not an absolute right or a doubt to avoid a trial.

Misconception Noted

But the opinion also observed that the Toppins seem to have a misconception of their duties as directors, officers and majority stockholders of a corporation to a minority stockholder.

"A minority stockholder can not take the position that he is self-interested superior to that of a majority stockholder," the court director and management.

Board of Appeals to Study Request for 4-Car Garage Permit

KAUKAUNA — The board of appeals will meet at 4 p.m. Monday to consider a request for a permit to build a four-car garage at 14 First Street in an A-1 residential zone.

The application was denied a building permit by Building Inspector Harold Loefer. The ordinance limits construction to a two-car garage in such a zone and the size of the lot does not meet building requirements.

Vanderloop indicated two spaces in the garage would be utilized for storage purposes if the appeals board grants his request.
